QUICKIES...QUICKIES...QUICKIES...QUICKIES...

■ COLEEN McLoughlin, right, wants a part in Corrie. The 19-year-old, right, who dates Wayne Rooney, sees the soap as perfect to get back into acting. A pal said: "Coleen starred in Hollyoaks, but now she and Wayne have moved to Manchester, she thinks a part would be perfect."

■ GREAT news. Antony Costa, right, and Jodie Marsh are no longer in the dating game – because they are back together. Singletons will no longer be subjected to the pair, who are just as rank as one another, because a joint work venture at Mayfair's Embassy club rekindled the lust.

■ NOW we know why Arsenal striker Freddie Ljungberg doesn't have a girlfriend – because he can't decide on a lady. The 27-year-old Calvin Klein model shared a table with a gang of blondes on Saturday and he didn't stop flirting the whole time. "He was interested in them all," said a source.

Colin's dad on his feet

WE beg his pardon, but Irish hunk Colin Farrell has a weird concept of what a stay-at-home dad is if our snaps of him in LA are anything to go by.

Dad to 15-month-old James, Col, 28, looked like he was ready for bed before he had even left his hotel, the Chateau Marmont yesterday.

Denim-clad Mr Farrell could barely stand as he signed autographs. However, isn't he a sensible guy? He had his keys round his neck to ensure he didn't get locked out.

IT'S A mellow yellow match made in Heaven... Scarlett Johansson and SpongeBob Squarepants. The flick is due to hit British cinemas in February.

RATS 'N MOULD AT TESCO STORE £30,000 fine for food offences

TESCO has been told to pay £30,000 after health officials found rat droppings and mouldy food at one of its busiest stores.

It is said to be one of the biggest penalties ever imposed on the supermarket giant, which admitted a string of offences in court.

Environmental health officers carried out inspections after customers complained and they found rotten food for sale, including a Thai ready-

by LIAM CASEY

meal covered in mould and an apple turnover a week past its sell-by date.

Inspectors also found rat droppings and food half-eaten by rodents at the store in New Malden, Surrey, among Tesco's busiest in the UK.

Blamed

Wimbledon magistrates fined the firm £25,000 with £5,550 costs for a catalogue of food safety breaches.

Councillor Linda Kirby, cabinet member for Environmental Quality with the London Borough of Merton, said: "All stores have a responsibility to ensure hygiene standards are met and Tesco is no exception."

"We will continue to do everything we can to protect customers."

A Tesco spokesman blamed the offences on the fact that the supermarket was undergoing a refit.

"Our daily checks are of the highest standards in the industry," he said. "In this case, there were some isolated problems that have now been dealt with. We are confident this was a one-off and will not happen again."

BORIS: I DID NOT LIE OVER SEX ROMPS

SACKED Tory vice-chairman Boris Johnson yesterday denied he lied to Michael Howard over his affair.

And he vowed to fight his corner on two fronts - to prove he didn't fib and to save his marriage of 11 years. The two-timing Tory swapped his suit for a pirate bandanna, long surfer shorts and a brown fleece as he went for an early-morning run near his £1million home in Highbury, north London.

And after his workout, Johnson, 40, insisted he had not lied to Tory leader Howard about his affair with writer Petronella Wyatt, 35.

Johnson, the Henley MP and editor of the Spectator magazine, who has been axed as shadow arts minister, also denied he had misled Mr Howard. He and his friends say the MP did not even speak to Mr Howard until he got the call saying he was getting the boot.

■ by JAMES WICKHAM

But other Tories were less than impressed with Johnson's attempt to claim he had been honest.

Piffle

One said: "Is he seriously suggesting it was OK to lie to newspapers providing he did not lie to the party leader's face?"

Last week the dad-of-four described claims of an affair with Miss Wyatt as a "pyramid of piffle". But Johnson was exposed by the writer's mum, Lady Wyatt, who said Johnson got Petronella pregnant and she had an abortion.

CAUGHT LIVE

ANASTACIA Wembley Arena

SHE'S been battling cancer for the last two years, but there was no way of guessing as husky-voiced Anastacia took London by storm with her Live At Last tour. A music concert it was, but in addition the petite singer was also performing a bit of stand-up comedy and even what seemed like an episode of Pop Idol.

She kicked off the show with Four Seasons from her most recent album Anastacia.

Then she launched into party mode, with tributes to her loyal fans – and even a singing competition featuring her best song ever, One Day In Your Life.

It wasn't all fun, though. Anastacia took time out to talk about her illness, and brought most of the crowd to tears with performances of Black Roses and her next song, Heavy On My Heart.

But the finale topped even that. After waiting through the crowd Ana blew us away by belting out I'm Outta Love and Paid My Dues.

Lets hope she doesn't leave it so long before she rocks Britain again.

LIKE Liberty X, pop pups McFly face having to call themselves something else when they launch in the States.

An American band already claims the name. The sprightly teens, who are hoping for another chart topper with Room On The Third Floor this week, won't give it up without a fight though.

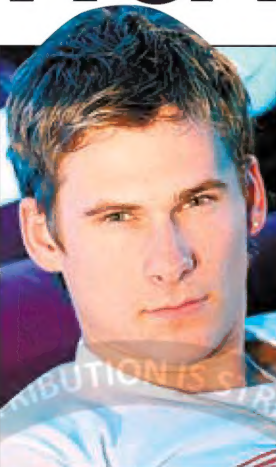

They want the Yanks with the title to back down. Good lads.

BRITNEY'S My Prerogative has smashed the record for first-week sales of a greatest hits album by a female artist in UK chart history.

The collection, beaten to the top by Eminem's Encore, shifted 115,341 copies last week. That beats tallies of best ofs from Whitney Houston, Madonna, Kylie, Mariah Carey, Janet Jackson and Shania Twain.

Lee: I must have Kylie

WAITING: Lee longs for a chat

BLUE BOY SMITTEN

BLUE star Lee Ryan is on a mission – to woo Kylie to work with him.

I can reveal the singer, 21, who is currently promoting Blue's Greatest Hits album, is to up his assault when the pair perform at the Smash Hits T4 PollWinners' Party on Sunday.

A source revealed: "Lee waited for two hours to meet Kylie after Ant & Dec's Saturday Night Takeaway, where they both appeared a fortnight ago. He really wanted to see her."

"While Lee is busy with Blue he is thinking ahead to what he's going to do next and along with his movie Changes, he's been writing songs. He'd love it if Kylie agreed to sing backing vocals on a track but his main thing is just to get to chat to her first.

"Unfortunately, Lee was disappointed at Takeaway as Kylie (left) slipped out the back door into a waiting car when the show finished."

Best

Smash Hits and T4 have pulled off a mean coup by getting Kylie, 36, to take part in the annual event.

Her appearance means she's likely to beat Rachel Stevens to Best Solo Female.

Blue will share the stage alongside Brian McFadden and Girls Aloud for the show, which airs on Channel 4. An insider said: "There's not a massive backstage area at Wembley Arena so the chances of Lee and Kylie meeting are good."

Following a course at New York's Film School, Lee put together Changes, based on his life growing up in south London.

He told me: "It's the first time I've got an A in my life. "My mum is really proud of me. I want to work on films as well as music videos but music is still very important to me."

"But I've been told to calm down the script of Changes because it's just too violent."

Killers to top tour

THE Killers are to headline this year's Shockwaves NME Awards Tour 2005.

Starting at Northumbria Uni on January 19, The Futureheads, Bloc Party and Kaiser Chiefs will join the rock 'n' roll activities which last year saw Franz Ferdinand at the bottom of the bill.

And we know how well they ended up doing...

Catch the talent early by booking via nme.com or ring 0870 1 663 663.

FURY AS CHILD-PORN COP WALKS FREE

A PERVERTED policeman who collected child porn for 10 years walked free from court yesterday.

Abuse victims were outraged by the judge's lenient treatment of trainee Pc Paul Hook.

The married dad-of-two stockpiled 4,000 images on his home computer and downloaded clips of tots being sexually abused. Hook, 32, swapped pictures of kids as young as three with other perverts on the internet.

by GARY NICKS

But Judge Andrew Patience QC let him off with a three-year community rehabilitation order. One victim of child abuse said: "It's outrageous that scum like him are let loose."

What he did was appalling. Considering he was also a policeman, he should have been made an example of and locked up."

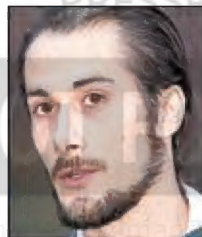

Even Hook admitted the sentence was lenient. Outside Maidstone Crown Court, Kent, he said: "I deserved everything I got. We all make mistakes I've got to tread carefully for three years."

Hook wept as he admitted 23 counts of having indecent photographs of children and one of distributing photos. Judge Patience said he was letting Hook walk free as he'd spent five-and-a-half months in prison since his arrest.

He was caught by his force's officers working on the nationwide Operation Ore crackdown on paedophiles.

Kevin Sparks, defending, said Hook's arrest had a "devastating" effect on him and his family. He had contemplated suicide and had not seen his two chil-

PERVERT: Pc Paul Hook dren since his arrest. Hook, who was placed on the sex offenders register, lost his police job and his family had been forced to leave their house in Snodland, near Rochester.

HAIR WE GO: Laughing Angela on set yesterday

Big hair day for Chris

ALL curls and tresses, lovely Christine Stephen-Daly nervously arrives for her first day on set with sex-and-shampoo drama Cutting It.

The 30-year-old former Casualty babe met up with her new pals to start filming the fourth series of the Manchester-based BBC hit telly series.

The Aussie star found a friendly face in Angela Griffin, 28, and the rest of the cast, clearly awash with enthusiasm.

A DOZEN MAN-SIZE MONTHS TO WELCOME

JUNGLE KING: I'm A
Celebrity star Peter Andre,
31, is hot stuff in his calendar

Year of the

by EMILY VOLKERT

FEAST your eyes on these hot hunks, girls – they're the guys who promise to make 2005 a year to remember.

So which of these fab fellas will you be making a date with?

They're all battling it out to be crowned calendar king as they gear up for the festive sales rush. And there's certainly plenty of choice for Britain's red-blooded babes.

Singer Robbie Williams is out in front at the moment, but all that could change as a parade of other gorgeous guys get 'em off – and get 'em in the shops for Christmas.

Everyone from sexy England rugby hero Jonny Wilkinson to cool rapper Eminem is in with a chance of hitting No1 in the sales chart.

Even Sir Cliff Richard is in the running. He's officially top calendar company Danilo's bestseller over the past 25 years. But speaking for ourselves, we'd rather see England football captain David Beckham in the buff.

Others competing for the top spot include rugby hunk Ben Cohen, singers Peter Andre and Justin Timberlake, and bad-boy actor Colin Farrell.

The rank outsider for the title is Phoenix Nights funnyman Peter Kay.

Grin

His calendar is being rushed into shops next week due to demand right across the country.

And Danilo's Jennie Halsall reckons he makes a great calendar hunk – if a rather unlikely one.

She says: "Sexiness in a man is not just about good looks and a sexy grin – it can be entertainment."

"Having Peter Kay on your wall will make you smile every day of the year."

"There's nothing specific that makes a good calendar boy, but they do have to have that special something. For me, it's a roguish grin and twinkling eyes every time."

Knees-up puts him out of Corrie for 3 months

CROCKED soap hunk Keith Duffy could be out of Corrie for three months.

The news stunned telly bosses as the Coronation Street pin-up had surgery yesterday on the knee he injured while filming a boozy party.

Doctors discovered that 30-year-old Keith, who plays Ciaran McCarthy, was far more badly hurt than was first thought.

He fell doing an Irish jig in front of the cameras, and it was first thought that he had dislocated the knee.

Dance

But tests revealed he had snapped his cruciate ligament – an agonising injury which can see footballers sidelined for an entire season.

Yesterday, as surgeons operated on Keith at a private hospital, Corrie writers were reworking scripts to allow for the star's lengthy lay-off.

The injury will also curb the heart-throb's social life, with no chance to dance the night away in favourite clubs such as the one he dropped into in Newry, County Down, just before his injury.

Keith came a cropper while filming boozy reception scenes following the wedding of Corrie butcher Ashley Peacock and nanny Claire Casey.

■ by JOHN MAHONEY

The newlyweds – played by Steven Arnold, 29, and Julia Haworth, 22 – were among cast members who dashed to help as he lay writhing on the ground.

His injury looked so bad that some of the show's women stars had to look away as medics gathered round him.

"He honestly felt he would be up and about in no time, and even came in to the studios the day after his fall," said a Corrie source.

"Luckily he was sent straight home again and further tests were done and an X-ray taken that doctors realised just how serious his fall had been.

"It is much, much worse than anyone suspected. Everyone is now prepared for Keith to need anything up to three months to recover.

The wedding scenes – to be screened on Christmas Day – were almost finished and Keith's injury will not affect them.

But all other plots involving his character have been put on the back burner.

IT'S VIEW THE JURY TV plan for courts

by MACER HALL and STEPHEN RIGLEY

A SENSATIONAL new kind of TV could be on its way to Britain - live courtroom dramas.

Even huge trials such as that of Maxine Carr and murderer Ian Huntley could be shown.

Law chiefs for England and Wales believe filming in court could make justice more visible and open.

An official document yesterday said televising cases was "attractive". And Lord Falconer, the Lord Chancellor, said: "The time is right for a full public debate."

Broadcasting has been banned

DRAMA: Huntley and Carr

from courts for 80 years. But in a five-week experiment, appeal cases at the Royal Courts of Justice will be filmed from today.

However, the hearings will not yet be broadcast.

Court cases are routinely shown on American TV ... and turn some trials into global sensations.

In 1995, around 100 million viewers were gripped by the climax of the OJ Simpson murder trial.

Similar viewing figures are expected in January when singer Michael Jackson faces child molestation charges.

But Lord Falconer said: "We don't want our courts turned into US-style media circuses."

Our Michelle gets hot and steamy with pal Lucy as

We're Queens of

WITH just days to go until the latest I'm A Celebrity hits our screens, the nation is bracing itself for another outbreak of jungle fever.

And who better to give the show a hot and steamy welcome than Daily Star favourites Michelle Marsh and Lucy Pinder?

Not only are the gorgeous duo huge fans of the show, but Michelle is tipped to be heading Down Under this week to join the I'm A Celebrity team.

The dazzling Daily Star discovery is reported to be lined up as a replacement after Swedish model Victoria Silvstedt's late decision to pull out.

Sizzling

Michelle, 22, is staying tight-lipped about the offer, but the Oldham babe is just what TV chiefs need to send temperatures soaring in Australia.

She and pal Lucy couldn't wait to strip off for these sizzling jungle-themed pictures.

And Michelle has always wanted to follow in the footsteps of fellow busty babe Kerry Katona, 24, who won the previous series earlier this year – even if it means tucking into a few bugs.

"I'm really up for it," she told the Daily Star. "I am up for anything like that. When Kerry did I'm A Celebrity, she was sh*tting herself! But hopefully I could overcome it like she did."

Gorgeous Michelle has become one of the nation's favourite pin-ups after coming second in the Daily Star's Search For A Babe contest in 2002.

The former care assistant is used to cameras following her every move after being filmed for the documentary Real Footballers' Wives with her hunky Oldham Athletic ace boyfriend Will Haining.

She even has plans for her own saucy show, dubbed Boob Brother, featuring some of her Page 3 pals. So life in the telly jungle would pose no problems.

Her luscious pal Lucy, 20, can also see the appeal of the show's steamy setting. "With all that heat, you'd have to wear next to nothing," says the beauty from Winchester, Hants.

Doing this jungle shoot was really good fun. The only thing we need is a couple of gorgeous Tarzans to keep us company!"

● I'm A Celebrity returns to ITV1 at 9pm on Sunday, November 21.

UP FOR IT: Michelle could be heading to the telly jungle – without her bosom buddy Lucy, right
